This directive describes NASA policy for providing project management with data necessary to assess contractor performance and for obtaining vital accounting and budget information:

(1) The NASA Contractor Financial Management Reports, NASA Forms (NF) 533M and 533Q, are the primary medium for contractor reporting on cost planning, performance, and control for cost-type, price redetermination, and fixed-price incentive contracts. The reports provide the following:

(a) Correlated information for NASA project management evaluation of contractor cost reporting, as it relates to schedule and technical performance, for contractor workforce analysis and for variance analysis and corrective action planning and implementation.

(b) Actual and projected data necessary for ensuring that contractor performance is realistically planned and supported by financial and human resources.

(c) Information necessary for accruing costs into the NASA accounting system, as set forth in the NASA Procedural Requirements (NPR) 9060.1, Accrual Accounting.

b. Reporting requirements necessary for the management and surveillance of a project and oversight of a contract shall be determined as early as possible in the project planning stage, by all organizations that will play a role in monitoring the contract during the performance period.

(1) The cognizant procurement, technical, project, property management, financial, and resources management offices shall be a part of the reporting structure development, approval, and contract administration process.

(2) The NF-533 reporting criteria shall be established prior to solicitation release and will be included in the solicitation and the contract.

(3) These requirements shall be developed in accordance with NPR 9501.2, NASA Contractor Financial Management Reporting.

Requests for deviations from the financial management reporting provisions of the NFS will be submitted for approval in accordance with NFS, 48 CFR Ch. 18, Subpt. 1801.471.
